

About CIM Summer Chamber Music

Directed by Sandra Shapiro, CIM Summer Chamber Music is a 10-day experience for pianists, string and woodwind students interested in exploring music outside of their solo venues. The rich and varied works available in the chamber music repertoire provide endless opportunities to explore and expand one's musical horizons. Students will have the chance to meet and work with other young musicians of similar abilities and musical interests. The course will combine coachings, supervised rehearsals, ear-training, eurythmics classes, rehearsal techniques, public master classes and a final performance.

Faculty

Sandra Shapiro, Director, Piano
Mari Sato, Violin
Andrew Sords, Violin
Louise Zeitlin, Viola
TBA, Cello
Katherine DeJongh, Flute
Brian Sweigart, Eurythmics
Lisa Rainsong, Ear-Training

Who Should Attend

Auditions are open to all students who study privately, ages 12-18, although exceptions may be made. Auditions will be scheduled at 10-minute intervals and heard by faculty only. Applicants must submit a completed application form before an audition can be scheduled. Applicants will be notified of their audition time one week prior to the audition. Students will be asked to play two pieces of contrasting styles and sight-reading. String students should prepare a 3-octave scale. Pianists should prepare a 4-octave scale. No accompanists are needed for the audition.

What to Expect

Each student will participate in two groups with one piece for each group. In order to allow adequate preparation, the pieces will be assigned and mailed to the student in advance of the camp starting, with the expectation that the pieces will be prepared in time for the beginning of camp. Group placement will be determined by level, ability and knowledge.

Each day will begin with a movement class and conclude with a session devoted to faculty and guest artist master classes, lectures on chamber music, sight-reading and other group activities.
